

NM-PIC Policy: Stipend, Benefits, and Resources

The annual stipend across NM-PIC training sites will be $27,500. Interns will be employees of the agency at which they are primarily placed, with the exception of IHS Shiprock. IHS Shiprock interns will be employees of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education. All interns will receive comparable health benefits, as well as paid time off, through their employer. Questions regarding specific benefits packages can be directed to the employing agencies' Human Resources departments.

NM-PIC interns have access to numerous resources. Funding for travel within the state of New Mexico is provided for interns to complete required training experiences. Assessment and other training materials are provided by each training site, and additional materials that may be needed may be purchased using consortium funding with Training Committee approval. Each intern additionally has access to administrative and IT support through their primary training site and through WICHE. Interns will also be given access to a psychology scientific literature database.